Description:

Constructed with Simpson Island stone by Michael H. Braden in 1911, this house was later purchased by Bishop E. Q. Jennings in 1958. Located on the corner of Ridgeway and Norah Streets, this two and a half storey European style home has many unique architectural characteristics. These include the prominent red tiling found on the high pitched gable roof as well as the light gray squared rubble that was used in the construction. After Bishop E. Q. Jennings purchased the house, he had an iron porch added to the front.
