

For Teacher Use: Exit Tickets

Academic and Applied

Exit Tickets are a teaching tool that a teacher can use as a review of the material and themes covered. At the end of class, students are given a few minutes to answer a question that reflects or expands upon the previous lesson. Provided is a small sample of questions that aim to approach a wide variety of learners and classrooms.

Exit Ticket for _____:

Today we learned about the lives of local children during World War 1. Describe one of the problems that children had to overcome.

Exit Ticket for _____:

Today we learned about the lives of local children during World War 1. Describe one of the ways that children coped with the realities of World War 1.

Exit Ticket for _____:

Today we learned about the lives of local children during World War 1. If you were to live during that time, what experience would you least like to have? How about most like to have?

Exit Ticket for _____:

Today we learned about the lives of local children during World War 1. Draw a picture of yourself in Fort William at that time. Include an activity you will be doing, and explain why you included it.

Exit Ticket for _____:

Today we learned about the lives of local children during World War 1. If you were to bring a child your age from 100 years ago to the present day for a week, what do you think they would want to do based on their experiences?

Exit Ticket for _____:

Today we learned about the lives of local children during World War 1. Children during that time enjoyed City Playgrounds and organized sports much as we do today. How do you think your playground or sports experiences have been the same or different than those of someone 100 years ago?