MOOD INDIGO | 6 PM

Award winning Mood Indigo has been Thunder Bay's premier jazz band for almost three decades, playing all of the best venues the city has to offer.

With founding member Dr Mark Thibert at the helm on saxophone, along with Glenn Jennings on the keys, and vocalist Anna Torontow, they make music every week in the form of livestreams for their Facebook followers, live shows or just jamming together to keep their craft strong.

During these difficult couple of years, Mood Indigo has wanted to support their community by sharing their music in support of local organizations and charities to help us all recover from Covid more quickly!

DANIELLE POLLARI | 7 PM

This wild hearted singer-songwriter is capturing listeners and their hearts. Danielle Pollari, born in Thunder Bay Ontario, is using her music to be a healing voice in the world. She brings a unique, refreshing energy to the stage, with her fusion of alternative, R&B, and pop music. Danielle Pollari has released three singles which have been featured on editorial playlists by Spotify and Amazon, including Amazon's Artists to Watch in 2020. Danielle's voice dances with ease from silky and soft to raw and raspy. With her heart wide open, she creates a safe and healing place for her listeners to inhabit; a place where they can be just as they are and be fully embraced by their own magic. She is currently recording her first full length album in Thunder Bay with platinum record producer Dan Hosh and Tennyson King.

JULY

CRIS DERKSEN | 8 PM

Juno nominated Cris Derksen, originally from Northern Alberta, Canada, is an internationally respected Indigenous cellist and composer. Derksen braids the traditional and contemporary, weaving her classical background and her Indigenous ancestry together with new school electronics to create genre-defying music.

As a composer she has her foot in many worlds working in choral, symphonic, film, theatre and dance, and is regularly commissioned by major Canadian orchestras and new music ensembles. As a performer Derksen performs nationally and internationally. Recent destinations include Hong Kong, Australia, Mongolia, Europe, Mexico and a whole lot of Canada: the place Derksen refers to as home.

HONEST HEART COLLECTIVE | 8 PM

Collectors gather stones to display on shelves. Musicians accumulate experiences and stories they save for the perfect song. The Honest Heart Collective is a sill emblazoned with captivating shapes and sounds: the space between a promise and pain. Rooted in Thunder Bay, Canada, they build earnest and urgent songs with the tools they've gathered over time. Their music roars like the electricity of a rock show in the 60's colliding head on with melody driven, dirt stained indie and revivalist emo. They exist at the intersection of old and new, exploring the spirited cracks between.

Over the years has been making music granting him a means of self expression while the shows provided him an avenue to present his music.

ASHAM STOMPERS | 7 PM

The Asham Stompers are a Very High Energy Metis Dance Group whose mission is: "to help re-capture and preserve the history of the Metis people through the dancing of the RED RIVER JIG which was invented at the Forks (Winnipeg) of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers in the early 1800's to attract the fur traders into the first Metis Colony to trade furs".

Our purpose: "to help bring hope to the children in our communities struggling with low self-esteem."

MONOWHALES | 8 PM

Launched in 2017, JUNO Award-winning alternative rockers MONOWHALES have put a new lease on the alt rock genre and established themselves as one of the most exciting new bands in Canada. With multiple Top 10 singles, millions of streams, and countless shows played across Canada (including support slots for K.Flay, DFA 1979, Sloan, and Marianas Trench), MONOWHALES have earned a special place in the hearts and minds of fans across the country.

CONNOR LOUGHLIN | 6 PM

Forged by the icy shores of Lake Superior, Connor Loughlin's music harkens back to the days of old in Scotland and Ireland. The events, rebellions, and misfortunes of the Gaelic speaking peoples have shaped the music from the British Isles. The longing for home is a feeling shared by many cultures who have been displaced from their homeland and Connor's stories remind us that our histories and cultures shape who we are today whether we know it or not. His songs tell the stories of generations before us while being played on a variety of folk instruments including guitar, bouzouki, and mandolin. Connor draws influences from artists like Andy Irvine, Daoirí Farrell, and the Dubliners; as well as the multitude of traditional songs passed down through generations.

JC CAMPBELL | 7 PM

Winnipeg, Manitoba-born JC Campbell has hit his stride with his new release, Lately, a seven-song collection that brings together all of his influences, while offering powerful messages of hope in dark times. As an Indigenous artist, Campbell has a unique perspective on the world, expressed through a soulful voice that would have been right at home in Memphis or Muscle Shoals in the 1960s.

Campbell began writing songs as a teenager on a guitar with a bowed neck given to him by his mother, which eventually led him to work with Winnipeg producer/guitarist Murray Pulver. Songs they recorded together soon made lasting impressions on the National Indigenous Music countdown and were added to regular rotation on Sirius XM.

NEW FRIENDS | 8 PM

With genre bending anthems translated through impactful and relatable emotions, New Friends are reinventing the standard for what popular music can be. As a product of their childhoods, they are nostalgic for the bands they loved growing up and continue to emulate those influences with a modern twist.

When Stefan Boulineau, Ayden Miller, Cole Wilson and Conrad Galecki crossed paths as music students in late 2018, the group clicked instantly and began working on demos in dorm rooms in London, Ontario.

It didn't take long until their hook-filled debut single, Purple Candy was out in the world. Reaching over 3.5 million streams on Spotify and climbing. They were recently announced winners of the "It's Your Shot" contest in Canada worth $100,000 in Artist Development.

With a charismatic frontman in Boulineau who displays dreamy originality in his voice, metaphorical yet relatable lyrics from Miller, rich guitar melodies from Wilson, and production magic + class writing from Galecki, New Friends is rapidly becoming a recognized sound around the world.

AERIALISTS | 6 PM

JUNO nominated neo-folk group Aerialists take a distinctive hybrid approach to folk tradition, combining deep roots in Scottish Gaelic, Norwegian, and Irish folk music with a unique post rock bent. Their third release, 2020's Dear Sienna, digs deeper into their singular prog-trad sound, inviting collaborators from Brooklyn to Gothenburg, and taking home a Canadian Folk Music Award for Pushing The Boundaries. Aerialists are ethereal yet precise, technical yet visceral, and every song feels like a new beginning. With Dear Sienna, the band has created a love letter to those who have come before us, and those who will come after.

LOCKYER BOYS | 7 PM

Lockyer Boys (Will and Charlie Lockyer) are brothers born and raised in Thunder Bay, Ontario. Performing at venues from Toronto to Thunder Bay to Seattle, the Lockyer Boys made their first steps as a cover band, quickly gaining recognition for great harmonies and multi-instrumental talent.

Entertaining crowds with stage presence far beyond their years made them an immediate show stopper at festivals, concerts, and event openers. They have played alongside many accomplished artists such as JUNO Award winning Eagle & Hawk, Coney Hatch, Chase the Bear, and more.

JEAN - PAUL DE ROOVER | 7 PM

Jean-Paul De Roover's musical upbringing was anything short of ordinary. Inspired to play music after reading a book about a child violinist, he begged his parents to learn to play violin where he was promptly coerced into piano lessons. After two years he was given the chance to learn violin in Pakistan where he was immediately disappointed with his progress and stopped. Moving forward to his early teens, he was gifted a handmade Bolivian guitar from the local market and self-taught himself how to play his first Beatles song. A smattering of lessons with a Brazilian jazz bass player, Dutch singer-songwriter and Chilean vocal coach encouraged De Roover to continue pursuing music, but following his own inspirations. Upon returning to Canada in 2001 he explored everything from concert band to barbershop while forming his first rock and punk bands before studying theory, composition and orchestration at Lakehead University in Thunder Bay, ON where he graduated in 2009.

FAKE SHARK | 9 PM

For their aptly titled LP Time for the Future, genre-fluid alt-pop outfit Fake Shark took a page from the Paul's Boutique playbook and got heavy into sampling, borrowing bits and pieces from existing records to create something uniquely novel and incredibly compelling.

In fact, Time for the Future successfully straddles several balances beyond fresh and familiar. Thanks to the clever lyricism laced throughout the monster hooks, it's universally appealing and individually relatable all at once. Immediately sticky but teeming with substance. Dance-inducing but still cerebral.

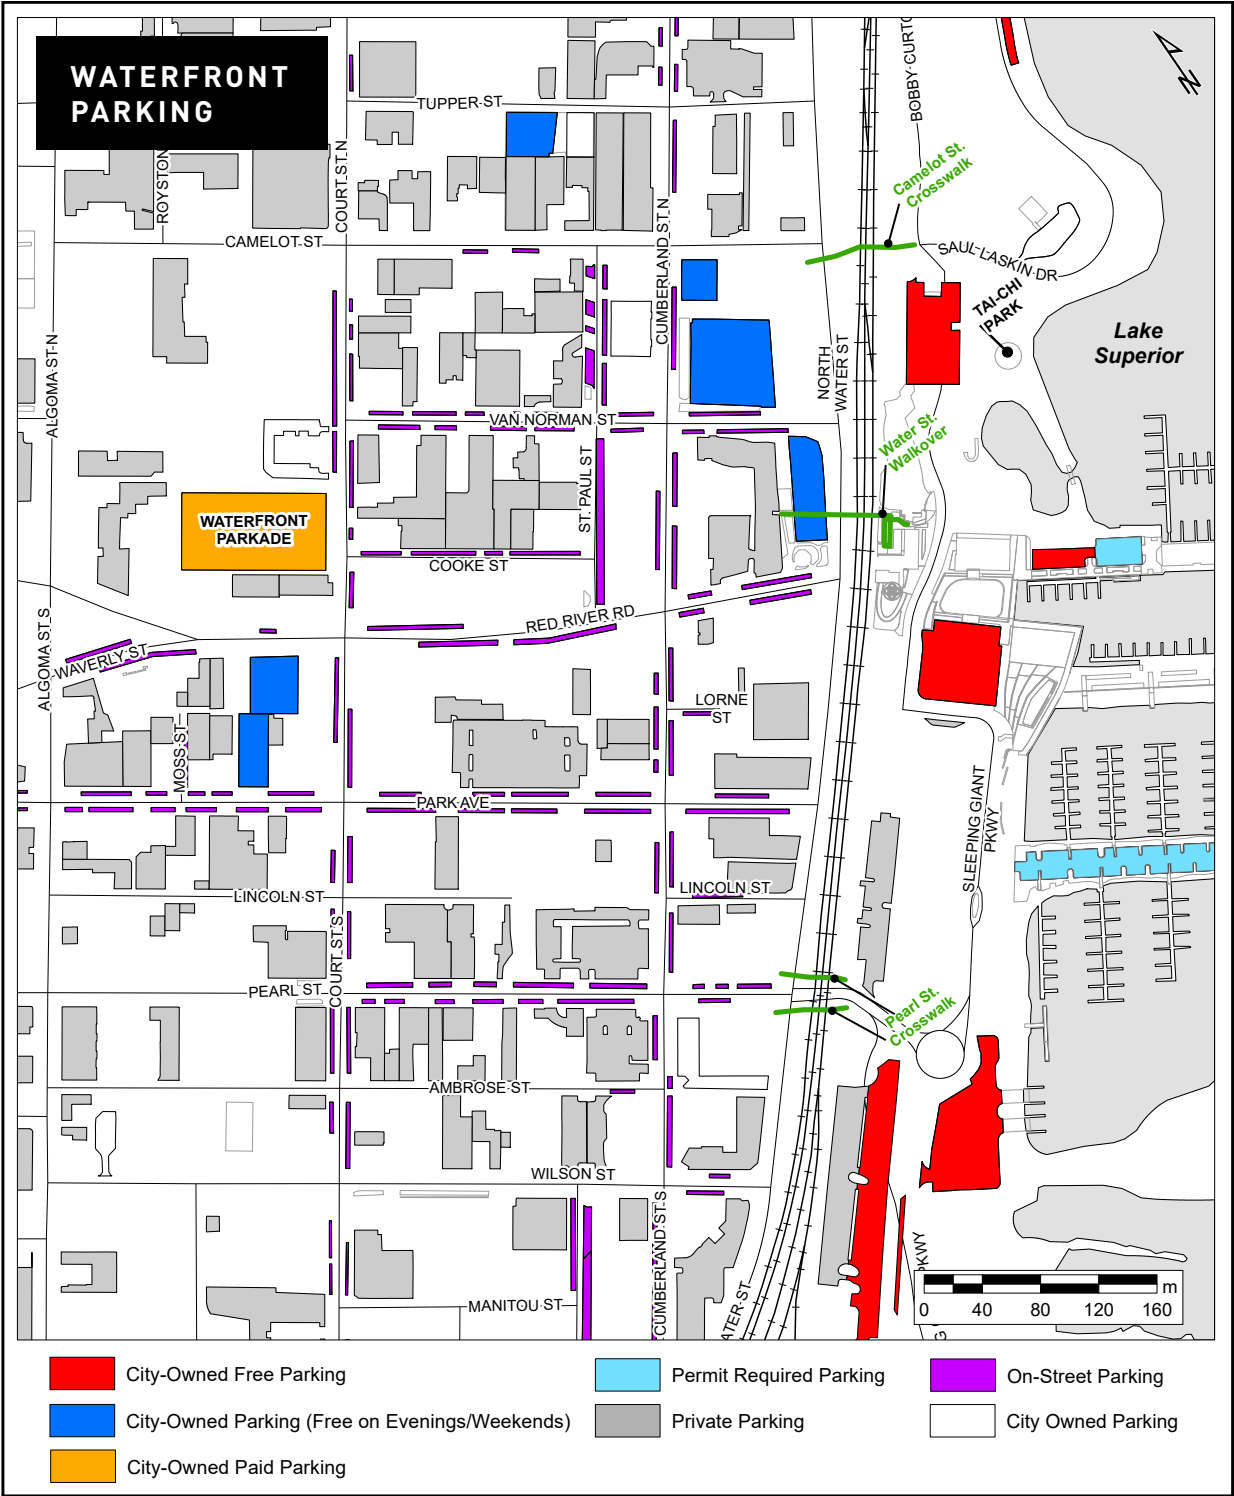

With virtually no limits on the instrumentation or stylistic intricacies Fake Shark can incorporate to make something stunning, the constant at the core of their output is the idiosyncratic, simply inescapable vocal hooks.

In the vein of other boundary-bending pop innovators like Prince, No Doubt, Solange, or Blood Orange, no two Fake Shark albums are alike, yet all are instantly recognizable as their own.
